Bomb Goes Off In Welsh Town

Police Tighten Security For Investiture

CAERNARVON, Wales (AP) — All police reserves were called up and a bomb alert was broadcast across Wales after a time bomb exploded in the Cardiff post office today, the day before Prince Charles is to be sworn in as sovereign of the Welsh.

Police blamed the explosion on Welsh nationalist extremists who have threatened to disrupt the investiture Tuesday. They said the bomb blew a three-foot hole in the wall of the Cardiff post office, 150 miles south of here.

Prince Charles, 20-year-old heir to the British throne, is to visit Cardiff Saturday after a four-day tour of the country following his investiture as Prince of Wales at historic Caernarvon Castle.

Commenting on the reserve callup, a police spokesman said, "It wouldn't surprise me if we have as many as 3,000 men in Caernarvon alone."

President Nixon's daughter, Tricia, who will attend the most elaborate royal ceremony since the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II in 1953, is bringing her own small army of Secret Service agents. Spokesmen wouldn't say how many security men would accompany her, but one said: "We have no fears for her safety in Wales."

Tricia Nixon planned to visit the Wimbledon tennis tournament today before traveling to Wales.

The Welsh security force in Caernarvon was beefed up by English policemen, specially briefed to look out for known Welsh extremists.

"We have to memorize 40 or 50 faces of people regarded as suspicious," said one officer.

"Nevertheless we look on the investiture as just another job. We will be tolerant with demonstrators, but anyone who gets out of hand will receive tough treatment."

The ceremony will be viewed by an estimated television audience of 500 million around the world. Weathermen forecast a cloudy day.

Troops of the Royal Household Cavalry staged a final dress rehearsal in Caernarvon today and hundreds of Welsh.

Nigeria Kicks Out Red Cross

Won't Allow Aid To Biafra

By MORTON ROSENBLUM
LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria stunned relief officials today by declaring the government is assuming responsibility for aid efforts on both sides of the civil war and that the International Committee of the Red Cross is no longer authorized to appeal for and accept donations on behalf of Nigeria.

The announcement was made by the government's commissioner for information and labor, Chief Anthony Enahoro, at a special meeting attended by representatives of more than 20 relief agencies, including Bernhard Frey, a member of the governing body of the International Red Cross.

'WORST THING'
Frey, who appeared shaken by the announcement, refused to comment, but other relief officials called the statement a "bombshell" and said "this is the worst possible thing."

There was no immediate comment from secessionist Biafra, which depends heavily on relief for its existence. In a recent statement, however, it rejected accepting supplies brought through federal ports or airfields.

In his statement Enahoro said: "The federal government has decided that the coordinating role of the ICRC shall cease forthwith. The ICRC will therefore no longer be competent to appeal for any aid from the international community and foreign donor governments on behalf of the government and people of Nigeria."

He said relief would be allowed to continue to isolated Biafra but only after prior approval and inspection by Nigerian authorities. Supplies, he added, will be restricted to basic essentials and could not include fuel or spare parts.

"Any foreign government or agency interested in assisting... must therefore deal with the National Rehabilitation Commission and the appropriate federal ministries," Enahoro said.

"Nigerians as a people have always been proud of the fact that Nigeria feeds itself. Nigeria is determined to continue to feed itself."

The new approach means a virtual blockade of Biafra, (See back page, sec. 1, col. 8)

'Pipe Dream' Has Come True

Indians Win Lawsuits Begun In 1946

PETOSKEY (AP)—They called it "Dominic's Indian Pipe Dream." But it came true.

The Ottawa and Chippewa Indians — inhabitants mainly of northern Michigan — will get $13 million as a result of the successful lawsuits begun by Robert Dominic in 1946.

More than 600 of the 6,000 members of the Northern Michigan Ottawa Association attended a session in Petoskey this month. The roll of Indians also is expected to increase before distribution day when the funds are awarded.

Only about 20 Indians attended the first session at a Petoskey grocery store in 1946, when Dominic outlined his plans to get the federal government to reimburse the Indians for lands taken from them more than 150 years earlier.

Dominic — an Ottawa — Chippewa born near Harbor Springs — first had to prove to the Bureau of Indian Affairs that Michigan still had thousands of the descendants of the Indians who roamed the wilderness before statehood.

His wife, a great-granddaughter of a chief of the Grand River Ottawas, had helped him throughout the campaign. They were married in 1940.

They traveled throughout the state, getting signatures of 3,000 persons who could trace their ancestry to the 1910 Durant roll, the last federal census of Michigan Indians.

After convincing the Bureau of Indian Affairs of Michigan's Indian population, the claim was filed in 1948. The Indian Claims Commission later recognized the Indian's claims.

The money award was announced in recent years. They are seeking an additional $1 million in funds. A decision on this is expected later this year.

Dominic has been president of the association since its formation. He obtained a degree in biology.

Cherry Crop May Be Hurt

More Than Half-Inch Of Rain Falls

Strong thunderstorms, heavy rain, damaging winds and a spectacular display of intercloud lightning occurred over a wide area of southwestern Michigan early Monday morning.

The lightning was particularly spectacular from 9 o'clock till midnight. Immense traceries covered the entire western sky here over Lake Michigan as flash after flash illuminated the sky. Hundreds of people were drawn to their windows and porches to watch. Fortunately, the lightning caused only light damage.

A total of .54 inches of rain was recorded at the Twin Cities airport from Sunday morning until this morning.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Grand Rapids, reported winds up to 55 miles per hour in Berrien county, and a funnel cloud was spotted aloft three miles south of Grand Haven in Ottawa county, 75 miles north of here. Numerous other funnel clouds were spotted in Ottawa, but none touched down, according to the weather bureau.

Damage to southwestern Michigan's tart cherry crop from the high winds is unknown at this time, but undoubtedly some damage did occur. "By and large I think we were fortunate, due to the greenness of the cherries at this time," Harvey Belter, Berrien county horticultural agent said. "Well, just have to wait a few days and then take a look."

LIGHTNING STARTS FIRE

South Haven state police reported that lightning struck an oil tank owned by Ford Oil company in Lee township near Holland, blowing off the top of the tank, setting fire to the tank and completely destroying it. The incident occurred around 11:15 p.m., Sunday night. Lee and Casco township fire departments kept the fire from spreading to two smaller tanks nearby. The fire burned itself out at 2:10 a.m.

Various power lines throughout the area were also knocked out by lightning and falling trees and limbs. Felled trees also blocked several roads in the Grand Junction area, and the strong winds blew a house trailer off its foundation near Edwardsburg.

The Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., reported that a tree broke through some power lines in Covert around 2:30 a.m. and that the Whirlpool Corporation's administrative building lost its electrical power for a while, after a jumper cable had been hit by lightning.

I & M's sub-station at Scottsdale was also knocked out completely by lightning early this morning and various street lights throughout the Twin Cities area lost their power during the storm.

St. Joseph fire fighters reported two lightning strikes but little or no damage followed. At 2:43 a.m. they were called to the Henry Hammer residence, 1237 Riverwood terrace, where lightning damaged an electric range. At 3:03 a.m. firemen were called to the Mullen division of Pollack Forests, Hawthorne avenue, where lightning ignited oil in a large transformer. The blaze was extinguished with dry powder.

WIND DEVICE HIT

The U.S. Coast Guard station in St. Joseph was unable to give a reading on the wind velocity because the station's anemometer was hit by lightning.

Police agencies in the Twin Cities reported that tree limbs fell throughout the area during the storm, but no one was reported injured, and no roads were blocked.

The Benton township police radio system to its squad cars was also reported put out of commission during the storm for nearly two hours.

Theaters Fighting To Keep Free TV

Worried About New Setup

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit and Grand Rapids television stations are expected to scramble hard for pay TV licenses if and when the Federal Communications Commission begins to issue them.

But the licenses will never be issued if theater owners in the two cities and around the nation have their way.

In theaters which once considered free TV their arch-enemy, "Save Free TV" signs are popping up. Some theater marquee even carry the message along with the customary announcements of the next attraction.

REURNS IN THEATERS

Why? Says Milton H. London, president of the Michigan branch of the National Association of Theater Owners, "Theater owners are concerned that once a national network of pay TV stations is put together, it will have the means to buy first-run films away from the theaters. We may be forced to show what amounts to reruns."

Proponents of pay TV, which would have no commercials, contend enough people would pay to see opera, ballet, theatrical productions and other cultural programming to make such a network go.

Cost for the programs would probably range from about 25 cents to three dollars, an experiment run by a Hartford, Conn. station showed.

The Hartford station produced special pay programs for six years until it reverted to its normal status Feb. 1. The station has said it considers the experiment an unqualified success.

Partly as a result of the Hartford experiment, the FCC announced in 1968 it would take accepting applications for the new licenses in June, 1969.

But opponents of the pay system maintain it would take top programming now on free TV and put it on a pay basis which some viewers could not afford.

U.S. Rep. James D. O'Hara, D-Mich., is the sponsor of a bill which would strip the FCC of its power to issue the licenses.

He says "With far greater revenue potential than the commercial networks, the pay television network could easily obtain the television contracts for the majority of college and professional sports and the better TV specials.

U.S. Rep. James Harvey, R-Mich., agrees.

Theater owners are afraid pay TV could get first-run movies the same way—by outbidding commercial competition.

ONLY 2 QUALIFY

Detroit and Grand Rapids are the only Michigan cities that would qualify for pay TV under FCC rules.

One Detroit television station news director, who asked not to be identified, confirmed reports that a rush among existing stations to get the new licenses would result when the first applications were approved.

"Pay TV is a money machine," he said. "You bet we'd want the license, and we'd fight like hell to get it."

On the record, his station takes no position on the issue.

Castro Is An Ungracious Host

Raymond Johnson a self styled lieutenant in the Black Panthers, sought out American newsmen at Havana last week to say that militant exiles from the U.S. are not getting the red carpet treatment in Cuba.

"The Panthers have not been received in a revolutionary fashion. We have been condemned to live in Cuba," he informed Fenton Wheeler, an Associated Press correspondent.

Johnson went on to say the Cuban government has imprisoned some Panthers in labor camps, isolating all of them from the local citizenry, particularly its Negro segment, and has caused at least one Panther husband and wife couple to disappear.

He indicated to Wheeler he regards his own freedom to mingle with the Cubans as a license to be jerked at any time by Castro's agents. He declined to say much about Eldridge Cleaver lest his remarks compromise the latter's tenuous situation.

An enterprising reporter unearthed Cleaver recently in a small Havana apartment.

Cleaver, the No. 1 Black Panther, fled the U.S. two years ago, leaving several criminal indictments behind him. His wife remains in this country.

The reporter cabled Cleaver to be leading a monastic existence and contemplating a book yet to be set down in its first manuscript form.

Johnson's statement can be taken in several ways.

The simplest deduction is that Castro has no intention of permitting Negro exiles from the U.S. imparting any thoughts to his black population that might deviate from the Cuban Communist party line. Race relations in Cuba are entirely different from the U.S. experience. This is one way, comparatively, in saying they are good. Since the Black Panther movement itself is racist, the Cuban authorities are not interested in Cleaver's brand of revolution.

Another inference is that if Johnson, Cleaver and the others had any thought of being used and financially supported by Castro for missionary work in the U.S., the Cuban government feels otherwise. Better to train their own people for such expeditions than gamble on foreigners who might not prove out once they left the island.

A third conclusion, admittedly a stretched one, is the relationship between Cuba and the U.S. For all the bombast Castro gives his people about Yankee imperialism and the official chilliness between Havana and Washington, the rumor persists that the two governments would like to patch up their differences to some extent.

Castro has persistent economic problems which his Russian aid does not solve. We have strategic considerations of global consequence which an untrustworthy neighbor compounds.

Some back scratching obviously is in order, the only question being how can it be done without either side losing face.

According to the Panthers a comfortable asylum is a self apparent block to reaching whatever accord might be possible.

Whatever Castro's motivation may be, any of the foregoing or others of his own thought process, the Panthers are learning the hard way what is meant by the old proverb about the grass always looking greener on the other side of the fence.

Streamlining Congress

While the nation's attention has been directed toward an avalanche of laws and regulations to improve the performance of private industry, the machinery of government which makes the laws and administers them has become increasingly complex, archaic and impotent to deal intelligently with many of today's problems. The state of Congress and pressures for reform were the subject of a recent feature in The Wall Street Journal by Norman C. Miller. Miller begins his article by quoting one critic who says, "The House is like the Black Hole of Calcutta." Another critic, a freshman congressman, observes of the congressional parliamentary jungle, "Nothing prepares you for its horrors."

Judged by the findings of Miller, Congress, which is without a doubt the most powerful legislative body in the world and, as such, subject to no disciplinary authority other than the electorate, has resisted internal change to a degree that many newer members find nearly intolerable.

One of the measures proposed by a number of members seeking fundamental change is the installation of computers. They help legislators with tasks ranging from answering their mail to analyzing the present budget proposals. As Miller points out, "Congressmen often feel helpless in the face of the growing complexity of their work."

House leaders currently are inspecting a computer system that could store an array of information and answer legislators' queries by flashing data on TV-like screens in congressional offices. But as Miller observes, "The much more difficult reform objective is to limit the power wielded by committee chairmen and other senior Congressmen, while opening up more opportunities for rank and file legislators to make their influence felt."

Changes that Congressional reformers are after include restriction of proxy voting by absentee committee members, a device that now allows some chairmen and other senior members to control absentees' proxies; the opening of committee meetings to the public, with few exceptions, and allow radio and TV coverage of open hearings; requiring written procedure rules for all committees, thus opening more avenues for a committee majority to override a chairman.

Veteran observers see little chance for the adoption of many of these alleged reforms. Miller notes, "Perhaps the least controversial reform proposals are those designed to improve congressional control of the budget." He also said with respect to electronic aids, "Congress is moving slowly toward equipping itself with computers, quite apart from the general reform drive." Most of this computerization at present has to do with "housekeeping," but as time goes on, the chances are good that computers will be used to store and serve up data on legislation, the budget and other topics.

One thing is certain: whatever is done to improve the machinery and the lawmaking procedures of Congress will be done slowly and with what many will feel is undue deliberation. While freshmen Congressmen and citizens alike may grow impatient with the bungling democratic process, of which Congress is the world's prime example, we must realize that government in a democratic society should never be expected to act with the efficiency and dispatch of a dictatorship, or of private enterprise for that matter. For many, the obvious moral in the necessarily slow pace of Congressional reform is that government in a democracy should never cross the line into the province of enterprise where production, efficiency and keeping up with the times are imperative. In reality, the seeming slowness and inefficiency of democratic government may be its most admirable quality. It leaves plenty of room for dissent,

THE FAMILY LAWYER

'Concealed' Weapons

"That guy is so tough," runs an old gag, "that if he puts his hands in his pocket, he could be arrested for carrying concealed weapons."

He couldn't, though, no matter how deadly his fists, because they would not be "concealed." In spite of the fabric covering the pockets, anyone could tell that his hands were there.

For contrast, consider this case:

A man arrested with a gun in his pocket argued that it had not really been concealed, because it made a distinct and visible bulge.

NOT CONCEALED

But the court decided there was still sufficient concealment to make the man guilty of the charge. The judge said a mere bulge was not enough warning, to an ordinary observer, that the man was armed.

It is this test — obviousness to an ordinary observer — that the law usually applies in deciding whether a person is carrying a concealed weapon. Thus, a gun would not be considered concealed simply because a particular person, looking from a particular angle, was unable to see it. For example:

A man who had a gun openly displayed in his belt was found not guilty of the offense. Even though the arresting officer — approaching from behind — could not see the gun, it was obvious enough for ordinary observation.

What does "carrying" mean? Does the person actually have to be moving with the gun? "DID NOT MOVE"

One man, seeing an officer near by, hastily slipped his pistol into an inside pocket. Arrested and brought to trial for carrying a concealed weapon, he offered this defense to the court:

"Carrying" means transporting the weapon from one place to another. I did not move a single step."

But the court pointed out that, although "carrying" could mean "transporting," it could also mean just "possessing." The judge decided to pick the meaning which, considering the most sense—and he found the man guilty.

..And Speaking
Of Your Health

Both of my grandparents had diabetes and severe complications in their later years. It skipped my parents and has not affected anyone else in our family. Nevertheless, I have been exceedingly nervous and worry constantly about acquiring diabetes. My urine and blood tests are negative but still I worry. Is there any way to pick up this condition very early without symptoms?

Mrs. O. D. D., Massachusetts
Dear Mrs. D.: It is an accepted fact that there is an hereditary tendency in diabetes. I always advise men and women, who have one or both parents with a history of diabetes, to be on the alert. This is healthy, preventive medicine. Such a sensible approach means early diabetes will not go unrecognized for years or until complications strike you.

I always emphasize it is unfair for people like you to go through life in terror that you will inevitably develop diabetes. You may. But you may not. You and your family should not live in constant dread when there are so many reasonable ways to handle this problem.

It is true that the prime objective of all doctors is to flush out of hiding the pre-diabetic or the unknown diabetic. Only then can this condition be kept in control and patients live in excellent health.

Your grandparents may have run into complications either because of carelessness or because treatment may not have been as efficient at that time. Today, early recognition of the pre-diabetic can be made with highly specialized chemical tests for blood sugar known as glucose tolerance tests.

It is pointless and expensive to have repeated tests if, when they are negative, you still worry. If you get little or no assurance from these examinations, perhaps your doctor, with his special understanding, may refer you to someone for psychological support until you realize that you are not now, and may not ever be, a chronic invalid. Diabetes can be controlled in almost all instances when there is excellent cooperation between doctor and patient. There is no need to spend your life with such unrealistic fears.

I have been getting injections of vitamin B12 twice a week for eight years. I feel fine and wonder when I can stop.

Mrs. B. I., New Jersey
Dear Mrs. I.: I wonder, too. But then I wonder why it took eight years for you to ask the question.

If there is a definite vitamin deficiency established by studies, and blood tests, then, of course, there may be a need for this kind of protracted series of injections. People with pernicious anemia are kept alive and healthy by repeated vitamin injections.

Sometimes I wonder whether patients feel healthier because they were "struck" with vitamins than when they take them by mouth. Such psychological advantage can be a tremendously expensive one. I have always felt that our sewers and streams are filled with excess vitamins that our bodies so wisely get rid of when unneeded.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Threat cultures are taken in special instances in an effort to find an unusual germ and to learn which antibiotic can destroy it.

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass 1 Pass 3
3 Pass 4 Pass 5

This hand occurred in the Lenz-Culbertson match in 1931. Oswald Lenz, playing with Sidney Lenz, was South, and Ely Culbertson, playing with his wife Josephine, was West.

Jacoby got to six clubs and might have been in trouble had West led a spade, but what actually happened was that Mrs. Culbertson led the ace of hearts even though it was not her turn to lead.

Under the prevailing laws, this gave declarer the right to call for the lead of a specified suit. Jacoby thereupon requested a diamond opening. When Culbertson led the four, Jacoby put up dummy's jack, which held, and later lost only a heart trick to make the slam.

The lead out of turn was helpful because, against a spade lead, Jacoby might have lost a heart and a diamond for down one.

However, by taking the right view, Jacoby would still have made the slam.

Let's assume West had led a spade. Declarer wins with the king, draws two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, and plays the eight of hearts.

If East rises with the ace, South obviously has the rest — since he can later discard a diamond from dummy on his king of hearts. So let's say that East follows low and South wins with the king.

Declarer now enters dummy with a trump, cashes the ace of spades — on which he discards a heart — and ruffs a spade. When West shows out, East becomes marked with a seven-card suit.

Declarer therefore assumes that East is short in diamonds and takes full advantage of the situation by cashing the A-K of diamonds before exiting with a heart. East wins with the ace, but must yield a ruff and discard, permitting South to avoid the diamond loser.

MOON SPACEMEN WON'T EAT GREEN CHEESE

FIRE THREATENS DOWNTOWN STORES: Stores located on Main street near Pipestone street in downtown Benton Harbor were threatened Saturday when a fire broke out in the America's Best Steak House restaurant, 139 East Main. Smoke damage was reported in the Leath-Newland Furniture company, Wilder's Book store and in the restaurant. Firemen said that the fire could have been very serious if they had arrived five minutes later. Main street was blocked and traffic diverted during the blaze. (Staff photo)

Restaurant Fire Smokes Up Stores In Downtown BH

By TOM BRUNDRETT
Staff Writer

Businesses in a main section of downtown Benton Harbor were counting up losses today from smoke caused by a grease fire in a restaurant during the peak dinner hour Saturday.

Hardest hit was the Leath-Newland Furniture company, 151 East Main street, where retail inventory valued by firm officials at $200,000 was threatened and damaged by the smoke. Also reporting heavy damage was Mi-Lady's Apparel Shoppe, 133 East Main. Part of an inventory valued at $35,000 was involved, a shop official said.

Others affected were Wilder's Book store, 143 East Main; Fox's Jewelry, 129 East Main; and offices above the jewelry and wearing apparel shop.

Spokesmen for the furniture store said they would be open today only to receive payment on accounts. Firm executives and insurance adjusters would be inspecting the premises to determine extent of damage. The other firms, excluding the restaurant, reported they would be open for business as usual, while damages are assessed.

DINERS FLED

The fire erupted in the America's Best Steak House restaurant, 139 East Main street, and forced an estimated 35-40 diners plus employees to flee. The restaurant is located in the southwest corner of the building which houses the furniture firm as well as Wilder's Book store.

Besides a first floor main entrance and showroom, the furniture store uses the entire second and third floors of the building. Heavy smoke damage occurred on the second and third floors, Benton Harbor firemen said.

"If we had arrived five minutes later," said Fire Dept. Capt. Harold Gaddies, "the fire could have been very serious."

One person, Norman Edmonds, 24, of 1126 Maynard drive, Benton Harbor, was overcome by smoke and required treatment at Mercy hospital. He collapsed on the second floor of the structure.

Firemen were commended for their actions by both Fire Chief Ralph Hetherington and Richard Lawton, manager of the furniture store.

"The firemen did a fantastic job," stated Lawton. "They averted a major catastrophe by their prompt action."

Firemen said the fire occurred about 6 p.m. in the exhaust ductwork above a grill in the restaurant. It was confined to walls and ceiling around the duct and a portion of the roof. The duct runs from the ground floor to the roof where a fan pulls the fumes outward. Grease in the duct caught fire from the heat of the grill below, firemen said.

Capt. Gaddies said flames were shooting 15 feet high off the roof of the building when firemen arrived. The flames, he said, came straight up the ductwork and spread to a 15 by 15 foot section.

FIRE SPREAD

"At first we thought the flames were confined to the ductwork," said Capt. Gaddies. "But then we found it spread to the walls and ceiling."

Floor joists between the first and second levels above the restaurant were charred extensively, Gaddies commented.

Firemen were at the scene for three hours. Ceiling tile above the grill was removed to get to the spreading flames. Benton Harbor police blocked off Main street traffic at Pipestone and Sixth streets.

George Lianos, 4121 Rhinehart road, Stevensville, part-owner and manager of the restaurant, said he and two others were near the grill when flames came down the ductwork. He and a friend turned extinguishers on the flames while other employees called firemen.

The restaurant was opened Oct. 24, 1968, and is the latest in a chain of steakhouses owned primarily by Samuel Papas, Lansing.

Lianos said he expects to re-open the restaurant by Friday or Saturday. Adjusters, he said, would inspect the losses today.

Lawton said he had left the furniture store about 15 minutes before the fire was reported. He said he had toured the second floor then and found no evidence of smoke or fire.

Ray Wilder, Benton township supervisor and owner of Wilder's Book store, said smoke damage in his store appeared slight. But he said he would know better after an inspection today.

Chief Hetherington commented, "I'm very proud of the men. The way the building is built, it is an old hotel. If the fire had gotten into the second and third floor it really would have gone."

Whirlpool Announces Lunar Fare

Local Industry Prepares Food For Apollo 11

When Apollo 11 astronauts land on the moon, they will be eating tasty, nutritious and varied meals supplied to NASA by the Life Support Division of the Twin Cities' Whirlpool Corporation.

Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin will spend about 24 hours on moon. Between the two exploratory and rest periods, they will eat two meals there.

Their first scheduled meal to be eaten on the moon will consist of bacon squares, peaches, sugar cookie cubes, pineapple grapefruit drink and coffee. The second meal will contain beef stew, cream of chicken soup, date fruitcake, grape punch and orange drink. In addition to the meals, other snack items such as dried fruit, candy, extra beverages, wet packs, sandwich spread, and bread will be included.

The food items are similar to the types used in previous Apollo missions: freeze-dried bite-size foods, those eaten directly from the package; and rehydratable freeze-dried foods, those foods which need to be reconstituted with water before eaten.

EAT IN MODULE

Astronauts Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins will eat in the command module according to pre-planned menus and will also have pantry items which they can select at will.

The meals are referred to as Meal A, B or C and are identified to each astronaut's predetermined menu by means of a colored tag of "velcro" material. "Velcro" is a nylon hooked material which mates to a similar textured material on the spacecraft wall. Besides identifying the food, it acts as a holding device which keeps the food packs from floating in space.

Unlike other missions, Apollo 11 will carry pre-planned menus for only the first five days of the flight. For the duration of the flight, the astronauts may select individual food items from a pantry. Pantry items are foods which are not assembled by means but merely packaged in categories such as: Desserts, Beverages, Breakfast Items, Bite-size Cubes and Salads and Meats. The pantry system enables the astronauts to select at random whatever food item they desire.

Other pantry items include: Rehydratable dessert items: banana pudding, butterscotch pudding, applesauce and chocolate pudding.

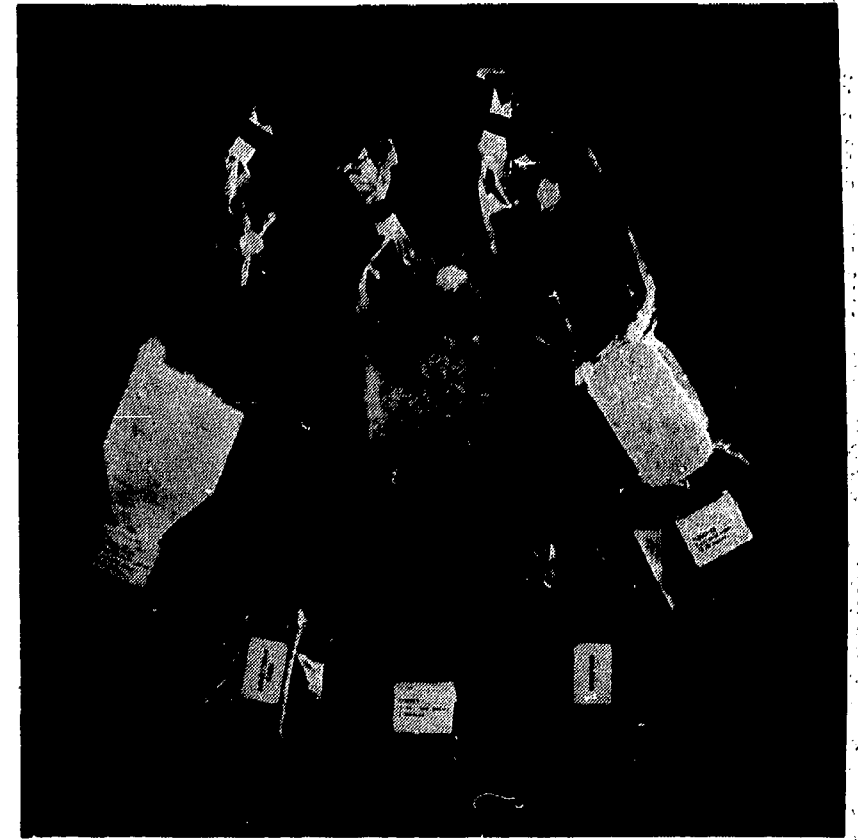

Rehydratable beverages: orange drink, orange grapefruit drink, pineapple grapefruit drink, grapefruit drink, grape drink, grape punch, cocoa and coffee.

SNACK ITEMS
Bites: cheese cracker cubes, barbecue beef bites, chocolate cubes, brownies, date fruitcake, pineapple fruitcake, jellied fruitcake, jellied fruit candy and caramel candy.

Breakfast items: peaches, fruit cocktail, canadian bacon, bacon squares, sausage patties, sugar coated corn flakes, strawberry cubes, cinnamon toasted bread cubes, apricot cereal cubes and peanut cubes.
Salads and meats: salmon salad, tuna salad, cream of chicken soup, shrimp cocktail, spaghetti and meat sauce, beef pot roast, beef and vegetables, chicken and rice, chicken stew, beef stew and pork and scalloped potatoes.

Fire Chars Restaurant In Benton

A grease fire Sunday at the Burger King drive-in on M-139 caused about $1,000 damage to the drive-in's kitchen around the stove area, Benton Township Fire department reported. The Benton Harbor Fire department rescued a resident of the Harbor Towers who was trapped when an elevator in the building stuck between floors. Alva Osborne, 208 Harbor Towers, was stuck for 45 minutes before the city firemen could release him.

MOON MEAL: Whirlpool Corp. has announced the first scheduled meal to be eaten on the moon will consist of bacon squares, peaches, sugar cookie cubes, pineapple grapefruit drink and coffee. Whirlpool Corp. is preparing meals for the flight of Apollo 11 next month that is scheduled to include a landing on the moon.

Sheriff, Deputy To Talk

Officer Suspended Following Crash

A Berrien county sheriff's deputy suspended June 20 following an auto accident in which four persons were injured was scheduled today to meet with Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell.

Jewell said he would confer with Deputy Douglas Fishburn, 32, after reviewing details of the case with department officials. The sheriff said the suspension was for an indefinite period pending completion of his investigation.

Fishburn, a five-year veteran of the force, is also scheduled to appear by 5 p.m. today before a Fifth District court magistrate, the Rev. C. Wesley Gordon, on a traffic summons charging improper passing. The ticket was issued after the crash.

The deputy was suspended without pay after the squad car he was driving was involved in a crash with another car on Pipestone road near Left road about a mile northwest of Eau Claire.

Two persons injured in the smashup remained in the hospital. They are Eldon Lewis Carper, 26, of 1200 East Empire avenue, Benton Harbor, and Charles Williams, 50, of 44 Ward Collins farm, Sodas.

Carper, driver of the other car, was reported in fair condition in Benton Harbor's Mercy hospital. He was admitted with internal injuries, broken ribs and facial scrapes.

HOSPITAL BOUND

Williams, being transported in the squad car to Berrien General hospital when the crash occurred, received a back injury. He was reported in fair condition in the county hospital at Berrien Center.

Fishburn received cuts and bruises but was not hospitalized. The squad car was listed as a total loss.

PAW PAW—State police at the Paw Paw post reported that three persons, including two youths on a motorcycle, were injured Saturday night in traffic mishaps.

Troopers said a motorcycle, operated by Garth Prindle, 16, Lawton, went out of control on a curve and flipped over on 93rd street, west of M-119, about five miles southeast of Lawton. The accident occurred about 11:15 p.m. Saturday.

Prindle was listed in satisfactory condition at Lake View hospital, Paw Paw, while his passenger, Terry Molnar, 18, South Bend, Ind., was listed in fairly good condition at Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo. Officers said Prindle was ticketed for not having an operator's license.

Injured about 6 p.m. Saturday in a one-car accident on Red Arrow highway about two miles south of Hartford was James R. Drake, 32, Hartford, who was treated at Lake View hospital and released. Troopers said Drake told them he had passed another auto and lost control while coming back into his driving lane. The car rolled over. Police said Drake was cited for reckless driving.

He Just Had To Have That Wine

DETROIT (AP) — A powerful thirst, an 89-cent bottle of wine and a twenty-minute wait proved too much for a customer who pulled a pistol Sunday morning so he could have his drink.

The man robbed the store after a clerk refused to sell him a bottle of wine at 11:40 a.m.—20 minutes before the store legally is allowed to sell beer and wine under Sunday liquor laws, police said.

SOUTH HAVEN PRETTY LIVELY AT AGE 100

'SCRUB HER DOWN': Bubbling with centennial enthusiasm as well as suds Saturday morning were these members of the South Haven Campfire girls and Bluebirds who worked to clean and polish the 100-year-old horse-drawn steam pumper parked by the South Haven fire hall and police station during the city's 100-year celebration. The old pumper was loaned to the city for display by the Benton Harbor Fire department. (Staff photo)

Centennial
Will Begin
On Tuesday

But Celebration
Started Unofficially
Over The Weekend

By JIM DONAHUE
South Haven Bureau

SOUTH HAVEN — The centennial spirit reigned over this Van Buren county community throughout the weekend, and folks participated by the hundreds in all of the preliminary events.

Even the Sunday morning rainstorm that swept the area failed to hold back the crowds that attended the afternoon sky divers show at the airport. The jumpers didn't fail to thrill the spectators as they demonstrated their talents in free-fall, guiding their chutes, and packing them again under a still partially clouded skies.

Perhaps the highlight of the weekend occurred Saturday night when the judges selected Mr. and Mrs. Henry Braunz, 722 Conger street, South Haven, as the best-dressed contestants in the Mr. and Mrs. Centennial contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Braunz were selected from a field of 11 couples who stepped spontaneously from a crowd of nearly 300 people attending the event at Dyckman park. They will reign with their two children, ages one and two, over the week-long celebration as guests of the centennial commission, and a special horse-drawn carriage has been prepared to drive them in the July 4 parade. Other contestants in the judging were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chadden; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Miller and family; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith and family; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ridley and family; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beckwith and family; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flood; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Richmond and family; Mr. and Mrs. John Scott and family; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wohlfert and family; and Mr. and Mrs. Al Holmes.

Judges were Mrs. Leo Schabbel, Mrs. Donald Zordel and George Hale. Tom Renner, a member of the centennial commission, acted as master of ceremonies.

Other events held during the weekend, the fifth annual garden show sponsored by the South Haven Garden club, and the Sunday night appearance of The Soul Sounds, a 20-member rock group, were equally well-attended.

Garden club members said a record number of 276 entries were placed in the show, held at the Episcopal church on Saturday. The show carried the centennial theme and was crowded with visitors throughout the afternoon.

AWARDED — Mrs. Frank T. Warner, South Haven, took the "Best of Show" ribbon with a fruit and grain arrangement. A special horticulture award went to Mrs. John Callaghan, Jr., also of South Haven, for her showing of a flowering cactus. Numerous other blue ribbons were awarded in a variety of classes.

The centennial begins officially tomorrow morning, when members of the South Haven Ministerial association conduct an inter-faith service at Free Will Baptist church, believed to be over 100 years old.

In the meantime, the town remains today a flurry of activity as old-time cars, trucks, fire trucks, wagons and other vehicles are moved in, signs showing folks their way around are erected, and the whole community dons the garb of festival.

Shopkeepers will be busy today decorating their store windows for the city's downtown "walking museum," old tractors and steam engines will be moved in for a week-long steam show, and the trailers of the Faw wildlife museum will be parked in Dyckman parking lot for a week-long showing.

Among the special events planned for Tuesday will be a 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. showing of "Red Ridinghood" by the Donald Batjes Puppets at Central School auditorium; Granny's Trunk Fashion Show at 2 p.m. at Ashen's Steak House; an exhibition of early American boxing techniques by members of the Golden Gloves boxing team at 6 p.m. in Dyckman Park.

Miss Julie Green will be crowned South Haven's "Miss Blueberry" for the week during the Tuesday evening square dance at L.C. Mohr High school. Nationally-known caller Bob Page will be on hand that

SOUTH HAVEN ROYALTY: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Braunz, of South Haven, are given the bonnet and top-hat of royalty to reign over South Haven's centennial celebration during climax of contest held Saturday at Dyckman park. Doing the honors are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stieve. Mr. and Mrs. Braunz will participate in centennial affairs throughout the following week. (Staff photo)

Bond Set On Teenager

Girl Accused Of Attacking Matron

A 16-year-old girl taken into custody after a housemother at the Berrien county juvenile home was attacked Friday night with a steam iron sat in the county jail today in lieu of $25,000 bond.

The girl, Elizabeth Sue Reznicek, daughter of Mrs. Bonnie Reznicek, 812 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, appeared Saturday before a referee of county Probate Judge Ronald Lange's court. She was ordered held for arraignment in juvenile court on a petition charging assault with intent to commit murder. Bond was set by the referee.

No move had been made yet by County Prosecutor Ronald Taylor to get the case referred to circuit court. He said he was awaiting a report on the girl from the Plainwell psychiatric center before considering the waiver request.

Mrs. Goldie Marie Iverson, 47, the housemother, was reported today in good condition in Berrien General hospital. Berrien Center, which is located beside the juvenile detention home. She received a skull fracture, head cuts and bruises, in the attack.

Robert Johnson, chief of the county's probation juvenile division, and Ronald Smith, juvenile officer, said the girl was taken before the referee as the first step in procedures for handling juvenile cases.

Under the system, the referee determines if a juvenile is to be arraigned before the probate judge who handles juvenile cases and what amount of bond, if any, should be required.

The girl, the juvenile officers said, would be taken before Judge Lange within a week or two. Any request to refer the girl into circuit court to face criminal prosecution would come then.

Prosecutor Taylor said he was waiting for the report on the girl because he understood she had been undergoing tests at the center.

According to authorities, Miss Reznicek had been at the center between June 10-26. She had been returned to the home late Thursday, they said.

State police from the South Haven post said death was caused by a self-inflicted shotgun wound in the chest.

Beaty's wife Jean had reported him missing from their home, route 3, Fennville, Sunday morning. She said he had been despondent and had not gone to work for a week.

A search party of about 100 friends, relatives and neighbors was organized Saturday morning. Two horsemen in the party, James Grant and John Kollar, found the body in a wooded area about 1:30 p.m.

Funeral services were to be held at 2 p.m. today in the Chappell funeral home, Fennville, with the Rev. Lloyd R. Van Lente of the Ganges United Methodist church officiating. Burial was to be in the Pearl cemetery.

George Beaty was born in Clyde township Oct. 20, 1919, the son of Marcus Beaty and Donna Ely Beaty. He lived in the area all his life and was employed at the Chris Craft boat company in Holland. An Army veteran of World War II, he was a member of the Fennville Veterans of Foreign Wars post, Odd Fellows lodge and Rod and Gun club.

Survivors beside his wife are two daughters, Kim and Karen, and one son, Kurt, all at home; his mother, Mrs. Mark Beaty, route 3, Fennville; two sisters, Mrs. Maurice (Dorothy) Burrows of South Haven and Mrs. Herbert (Julia) Cooley of Gobles, and two brothers, Floyd W. and Eugene L. Beaty, both of Gobles.

Victim Last Seen
Fishing In Canoe

GOBLES — Elza I. Tice, 65, of 924 Lovell street, Kalamazoo, drowned about 6 p.m. Sunday, in Mill Lake about 1½ miles northwest of here.

Tice apparently fell from the canoe from which he was fishing shortly after 6 p.m. His body was recovered a few minutes later by Emmitt Kyle of Kendall, who dove in and followed Tice's fishing line to the bottom of the lake, according to state police at the Paw Paw post.

Tice was visiting his son, Elza Coy Tice of Kalamazoo, who has a cottage at the lake. Witnesses told state police that they had seen Tice fishing from the canoe about 30 feet from shore, but did not see or hear him fall from the boat. Tice was fully clothed at the time of the accident.

His death brings the total number of drownings in Van Buren county to five for the year.

His body was taken to the Robbins funeral home in Bloomington where funeral arrangements were incomplete this forenoon.

SUMMER HOME DESTROYED: About a dozen firemen from New Buffalo township and Lakeside fire departments battled a blaze this morning that destroyed this summer home off Lakeshore road (Old M-11) about three miles north of City of New Buffalo. Donald Wilson, New Buffalo township fire chief, said home was owned by Kenneth Ackerman of Chicago. Cause of the blaze, discovered about 8:15 a.m., has not been determined, Wilson said. He said blaze appeared to have started in rear portion of one-story structure and smoke was visible for miles, Wilson said Ackerman family, had stayed at home on Sunday, but building was unoccupied at the time of the fire. March Of Dimes Has Good Year

Donations Up
5% In Berrien

Contributions to the Berrien county March of Dimes were up five percent this year as compared to 1968, it was announced today by Bill Brenninghouse, campaign chairman.

Total receipts this year were $22,754.90. Of the 26 communities participating, those with the greatest increase were Benton Harbor under the chairmanship of Ernest Whiteside; Berrien Springs; Alex Miskiewicz, chairman; Buchanan, Jerry Lauver, chairman, and Water-vliet, Mrs. L. A. VanLoon, chairman.

EXPENSES LOW

Fund-raising expenses amounted to $2,286.16 for postage and supplies. All campaign workers and chairmen are volunteers. The Berrien County March of Dimes chapter has only one paid employee, a part-time executive secretary.

Since the aim of the National Foundation is to support research that will eventually find causes and cures for birth defects, a portion of each chapter's funds are allocated to a medical scientific research fund. For the local chapter this amounted to $5,114.68.

BIRTH DEFECT

TREATMENT

In addition, $7,672 collected locally goes to the National Foundation to support the Salk Foundation work and the more than 100 birth defect evaluation and treatment centers around the country. Most birth defect patients from Berrien county go to the treatment center at University hospital in Ann Arbor.

The $7,672.03 that remains is used in Berrien county to assist families of birth defect children in finding proper medical care; to furnish educational material to doctors and their patients; for nursing scholarships, and for assistance to polio cases. The local chapter currently is helping 15 polio victims at a cost of some $4,000 annually.

BEST OF SHOW: Mrs. Frank T. Warner, South Haven, took the "Best of Show" award during South Haven Garden club's annual garden and flower show Saturday at South Haven Episcopal church. Mrs. Warner's fruit and grain arrangement, depicting the community's agricultural contributions over the years, was picked by judges to be the best of 276 entries in the show. Mrs. John Callaghan, Jr., South Haven, earned the top award in horticulture with her flowering cactus. (Staff photo)

Mrs. Joan Ploch, coordinator of the show, promises a variety of unusually good local and area talent ranging from an old fashioned dixie band to a precision dance line with "The Vi Shaffer Dancers."

All types of talent will be seen on the deck of a special boat that will be brought to the riverfront in front of the bleachers at the marina site.

THEATRICS TOO — An old-fashioned melodrama will be staged nightly, beginning Tuesday, at the Sleepy Hollow Resort village theatre, and Michigan historical movies will be shown regularly Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the city recreation building between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Youth Group's Dance Called
Success By Coloma Officials

COLOMA — The first dance sponsored by the Coloma Youth Group Saturday night has been termed a success by the young people, police and city officials.

Over 400 young people attended the dance held at the Harding's supermarket parking lot. Mayor Glenn Randall said, "I feel this has been a real good venture and I'm very pleased. When you get 400 young people together without any trouble developing, I think it is something for a community to be proud of. Our young people conducted themselves like ladies and gentlemen and personally I'm very proud of them."

Coloma patrolman Ronald Weber, who volunteered his services to supervise the dance said that from a police standpoint the affair left nothing to be desired. He said patrolmen on duty reported there was not any undue noise or traffic problems. Weber added he is 100 per cent behind the Coloma Youth Group.

Other city officials at the dance were city commissioners Joe Reeves, Martin Quigley and Howard Brewer.

Weber said the group is planning to hold the dances in different locations so the music and normal noise will not bother any one area. The youth group is now looking for a place to hold dances in the winter and is seeking contributions to help them continue to hold the dances.

Coloma city commissioners said they will support the group providing township officials also offer support.
